Official Notice on Journal Title Standardization and ISSN Application Compliance

Issued by the Editorial Office

This is to formally notify all stakeholders, indexing agencies, and regulatory authorities that, pursuant to observations raised during the ongoing ISSN application review, the International Journal of Business and Management Research Studies has undertaken comprehensive corrective actions to ensure full compliance with ISSN requirements.

The journal title has been standardized uniformly across all official representations, including but not limited to the website, website content, article metadata, submission systems, cover pages, logos, site favicon, letterheads, and ISSN application records, as:

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF BUSINESS AND MANAGEMENT RESEARCH STUDIES

Previously, the symbol “&” appeared in certain instances of the journal title. The journal has now formally adopted the word “AND” to ensure uniformity, clarity, and regulatory consistency across all platforms and materials.

It is further confirmed that the following actions have been completed:

- Publishing body details have been duly provided and incorporated with formal consent.
- Editorial and advisory board profile links have been verified, corrected, and updated.
- Issue designation inconsistencies, including inaugural issue references, have been rectified.
- All published articles are now hosted directly on the official journal website and are no longer distributed via external Google Drive links.
- All branding materials, including logos, site favicon, and official letterheads, have been updated to reflect the standardized journal title.

Clarification Regarding Article PDFs and DOI Registration

Certain article PDF files published in Volume 1, Issue 1 contain the phrase:

“International Journal for Business and Management Research Studies”

instead of:

“International Journal of Business and Management Research Studies.”

These articles were published prior to the completion of journal title standardization, and Digital Object Identifiers (DOIs) have already been formally registered and assigned to each article. In accordance with established publishing ethics and DOI metadata integrity requirements, retroactive modification of these published PDF files is not feasible.

Accordingly, this notice is issued to formally document and acknowledge the correction and standardization of the journal title at the institutional, branding, website, and metadata levels.

The journal reaffirms its commitment to transparency, academic integrity, and full regulatory compliance.
